PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

With nearly two decades of experience, I have worked extensively across television, high-end drama, major motion pictures, and independent productions. After graduating from the NFTS in 2008, I was a Sound Assistant on both television and films, before becoming a Boom Op in 2012 on an episode of Black Mirror with Chris Ashworth. Originally from the Northwest, I am now based in South Oxfordshire with excellent access to London and production hubs throughout the South and West. I am known for my collaborative approach with crew, resilience, and composed problem-solving under pressure.
